website: www.noyesclass.weebly.com

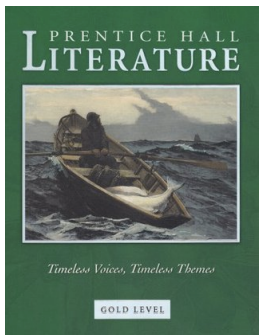

email: carrie.noyes@cnusd.k12.ca.us

What we will learn

In this class, we will be focusing on literature and composition. In every piece of writing we read, we will take an in depth look into the author's style and in turn begin creating your own style of writing. The compositions of short stories, essays, speeches, and creative writing will incorporate the study of grammar, punctuation, and proper writing structure. This will not be a class you can daydream through and expect a good grade. You will be required to work! Reading, writing, thinking, and participating will be key components to your success in this class.

Required Materials

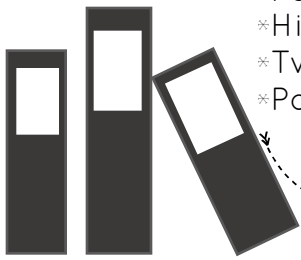

Leave your textbook at home. I will notify you when you need to bring it to class!

Internet access will be a must for most homework assignments. A charged smartphone &/or tablet is also strongly recommended to bring to class.
